

I appose any incorporation of the following RM numbers as is, (RM-10806, RM-10808 thru RM-10811) In favor of deleting the element 1 test requirement for all Amateur radio license classes except extra class! where element 1, should be left "as-is". This approach would require little effort on the part of the FCC and open the door for those with a mental block re CW to at least get a taste of HF Amateur Radio operations on voice and digital modes using the existing general class assigned band plan frequencies.
